

How to Select the Perfect Engagement Ring

The purchase of an engagement ring is a very important investment and should be treated with care. It really can be a stressful process for the guys. In an effort to help you we recommend you do the proper research (as outlined below) and consult one of our reputable professional to assist you.

First, guys you should choose an engagement ring that best represents her "personal style". We recommend you study her jewelry style...what rings she wears, tries on when she is shopping or comments on when she sees one online, in a magazine or on someone else's finger.

This will help you pick the perfect style for her and determine the diamond shape.

Next, get her ring size by using our Ring Sizer and wrap it around a ring she wears or take one of her rings to a jeweler for sizing.

Now that you have an idea of her "personal style" define your budget, this will narrow down all options.

Many people opt to buy a loose diamond and then select a setting which is machine made. This does not make a custom made ring. Most online jewelers offer this option, but at LuxJewels.net we custom make every piece by hand and you can see the difference in our work.

Many jewelers also sell pre-set engagement rings as found in retail stores. There is a variety of traditional ring settings. These styles are readily available both in retail and online. At LuxJewels.net our custom made jewelry may be a similar style as seen in the retail stores or unique to our customers' needs but our rings are visible superior those pre-made machine settings.

With over 60 years of experience our team at LuxJewels.net can relieve the stress and help any future groom find their perfect engagement ring.
